Volume 39 - May 2015

For many years Stone Canyon has bumped along with much uncertainty surrounding its future as the golf course underwent ownership changes and finally bankruptcy. Emerging last summer with a new ownership group for the golf course, led by PGA Tour star Phil Mickelson, the situation has stabilized substantially. The property at Stone Canyon has always been undoubtedly one of the premier desert locations in the country but sales suffered from both the uncertainty at the club & the general economy. Late this spring there has been quite a resurgence of activity with home sales in Stone Canyon. Within just the last two months there have been four homes which have sold and there are another four currently under contract. Add new construction to the mix and finally the future looks bright.
